MR. CATON IN RICHMOND.

Colonel James R. Caton, of Alexandria, candidate for lieutenant-governor and democratic floor leader in the lower house of the State Legislature, is emphatic in his statement to the effect that he is in the race to remain and will exert every effort to secure the nomination. "So far as I am able to ascertain," said Colonel Caton, "I can find no precedent for a lieutenant-governor standing to succeed himself. The accepted opinion heretofore has been that this officer retired when he had been chief. Of course there is no inhibition in the constitution from the second officer of the commonwealth succeeding himself."

"When Mr. Ellison was a candidate four years ago I withdrew from the race, and so far as I was concerned, gave him a clear field. I will not do this again. I have travelled throughout the state and can say that the outlook at this time is bright and I have every hope of success."

Colonel Caton was asked if he had anything to say regarding the fact that while Mr. Ellison was a candidate for office, he occupied his position as chairman of the state democratic committee.

"I have very positive views regarding this," said Mr. Caton, "but do not feel that the time is ripe for me to say anything. When this time does come I will not mince words, but will say just what I think."—Richmond Journal.

HELD ON BAIL.

As stated in the Gazette of Saturday the little four-month-old child of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Collins, of near Wedderburn, Fairfax county, died the previous night from the effect of a dose of laudanum given it by a colored girl in the house who had been scolded by the child's mother. The girl, Frances Williams, fourteen-years-old, was on Saturday night held by a coroner's jury, for the death of the child. The jury assembled in the home of Mr. Collins, and after examining Mrs. J. P. Smallwood and A. G. Cumber and the father of the girl, returned a verdict in which they recommended that the girl be held. The girl was taken in custody Saturday afternoon by Sheriff Allison and arraigned before Justice W. M. Ferr and held in bond in the sum of $1,000 for her appearance at a preliminary hearing Wednesday next. Bond in the foregoing amount was at once furnished by the girl's father and she was released. The girl when accused of having administered the drug by Mrs. Collins, denied being guilty. The authorities questioned her for several hours Saturday afternoon, but she denied knowing anything about the affair, saying the child simply went to sleep. In the stomach of the child traces of laudanum were found. Later the stomach was sent to Georgetown Hospital for analysis. The jury returned a verdict of death from a dose of laudanum, given by the hand of Frances Williams.

FUNERAL.

The funeral of Bashard T. Grigsby, formerly of this city, who died at the Providence Hospital, Washington, Thursday last, took place from his late residence, 521 M street southwest, Washington, at 2 o'clock this evening. Two daughters, Mrs. John P. Phillips and Mrs. Sissie Abendeheln, twenty-one and six great-grandchildren survive him. Mr. Grigsby was born in Alexandria in 1832, and for many years was in the steamboat service on the Potomac. During the war he was in the United States service, and at the conclusion of the struggle returned to steamboat work. For many years Mr. Grigsby was mate and ticket collector on the old ferry boats between this city and Washington, and in that capacity made many friends.

POLICE COURT.

[Justice H. B. Caton presiding.] There were three cases before the Police Court this morning. Perry Newby, colored, was charged with using threatening and abusive language towards George Roy, also colored. The accused was dismissed. Andrew Lomax, colored, was charged with assaulting Alice Harris, but the complainant was not present and Lomax was released. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the woman.

Robert Bryant, who was charged with disorderly conduct toward Ben Penn, was fined $2.50.

AMUSEMENTS.

This week ushers in for the edification and amusement of the theatre-going public first class entertainments at the three houses, as will be seen by their advertisements on this page. Considerable expense has been expended in order to put on first class shows and those this week are of a class which are bound to attract attention. The vaudeville and pictures at the Opera House and Surprise are of the finest order while the talking and silent pictures at the Alexandria Amusement Company speak for themselves.

At the Opera House the Johnson-Downey Stock Company will present that thrilling western drama "Scout's Revenge."

At the Surprise in addition to Raymond and Belmont, in their clever acrobatic singing and dancing act, there will also be Billy Franklin, the funniest black-face comedian on the stage, and George W. Wachs, the genial Dutch comedian.

The whole cast is good, and it is needless to predict a great show or promise to those who attend a pleasant evening. The end men are Messrs. Westlake, Downey and Maxley, bones, and Tom Trodden, Dr. E. A. Gorman and William Toomey, tambos. The solos are in line with the balance of a first class performance, and they will be sung by Messrs. Robert Wenzel, E. Forrest Birrell and J. Marshall Dobie. The interactor will be Mr. M. J. McFarland.

At the Alexandria Hospital today it was stated that the condition of John Davis, the colored man, who fell from a train near Manassas Friday last had slightly improved.

When Hendrick Hudson sailed up the Hudson river and founded a little hamlet, we know nowadays as Little Old New York, he was quite surprised on passing the Statue of Liberty to find there were no steamships nearby to haul him upstream. So he blew his siren a couple of blasts and forthwith sent a wireless into the city stating that he had sighted on his way over what looked to be a second edition of Old Man Noah's Ark but what in reality was the return expedition of a well known and private citizen of Oyster Bay. An aeroplane was sent out from the harbor to bring Mr. Hudson ashore, where he was banqueted most hospitably on those irrepressibly delicious Aunt Sam's Sausages and Hams from the Auth Stand, Sylvan Blenheim, The Auth Stand, City Market.
